Letters

President's Message

Understanding implicit bias is key to ensuring an inclusive profession and society.

Opening Statements

The Florida Supreme Court lays down the law on judicial attire.

- California aligns itself, for the most part, with federal labeling standards.
- If your email is hacked, you have recourse—if you act fast.
- Ten questions for the lesbian attorney whose arguments helped overturn the Defense of Marriage Act.
- Cartoon of the month: Check out last month's contest 13 winner and try crafting a caption for the current cartoon.
- Short takes and fast facts on the law. 14

15

NATIONAL PULSE The FAA has grounded two services that link private pilots with passengers.

- NATIONAL PULSE The tug-of-war over patent law interpretations continues between the Supreme Court and the Federal Circuit.
- SUPREME COURT REPORT Nonunion teachers seek relief from paying fees for collective bargaining.

Practice

ETHICS Indiana ethics opinion says lawyers are not always obligated to report cases of child abuse involving clients.

- MINDFULNESS A life's worth of experiences combine with cognitive science to deepen the case for bringing mindfulness into law practice.
- STORYTELLING A behavioral economist's work offers lessons for legal storytellers about judgment and decision-making.

Your ABA

The ABA's Ankerwycke publishing imprint produces books that tell the "flesh and blood" side of the law.

- The association applauds the new FCC rule seeking to hold down phone rates charged to prisoners.
- 71 Some plaintiffs argue that insulting words can't hurt them.

72 Precedents

The curtain closes on Hawaii's monarchy.

29 Business of Law

LITIGATION SERVICES A former news producer's videos to the tale in personal injury cases.

- E-DISCOVERY Courts turn to special masters and mediati services to solve issues with electronically stored informat
- LAW SCRIBBLER Hackathon winners' app helps migrant farmworkers locate aid—and themselves.
- LAW BY THE NUMBERS Midsize corporations are slow to adopt e-discovery innovations.
- AMBROGION TECH New top-level posts grow out of firm desire to display their technical expertise.
- STARTUP PRACTICE New York leaders, law clinics collaborate to help tech startups sort out regulatory issues

Start vc LEXISNEXI