

Asia Pacific Journal of Environmental Law

Volume 23, Issue 1, 2020

Contents

Editorial

- Anthropogenic marine impacts, reform of environmental governance in China, and biopiracy in Southeast Asia 1 Ed Couzens and Tim Stephens

Articles

- Do the Conventions on the Law of the Sea and Biological Diversity adequately protect marine biota from anthropogenic underwater noise pollution? 6 Guy Dwyer and Tristan Orgill
- China's new approach to environmental governance and environmental public interest litigation 39
Han Jiang, Patricia Blazey, Yan Wang and Hope Ashiabor
- Tackling biopiracy in Southeast Asia: the need for a legally binding regional instrument 74
Jinyup Kim

